FRIEDENSREICH HUNDERTWASSER

is one of the most famous artists of the 20th century. He owes his international reputation to his paintings and original graphic art, his commitment to architecture that is more in tune with nature and people, and his ecological activism.

Tulln, city of gardens and art

As THE garden city of the country, Tulln is known far beyond its borders – among other things thanks to DIE GARTEN TULLN, the 'nature in the garden' experience world.

The idyllic paths of the water park connect the fairgrounds and DIE GARTEN TULLN with the magnificently designed and ecologically maintained Danube riverbank, the climate-friendly Nibelungenplatz and the historic main square.

In the centre of Tulln you will find, among other things, the Egon Schiele Museum, dedicated to the work of Tulln's most famous son, and the Stadtmuseum Tulln with the Roman Museum and the Virtulleum. During a visit, the following cultural sights should not be missed: the Roman Tower – one of the oldest buildings in Austria, the Romanesque Tullner Karner, St. Stephen's Parish Church, and the Baroque Minorite Church.

One city – two exceptional artists.

HUNDERTWASSER'S SHIP REGENTAG

Hundertwasser's first architectural work

The ship 'Regentag' represents an important period in Hundertwasser's life; he lived and painted on it for ten years. It was his home, his land, his headquarters.

1968

Friedensreich Hundertwasser acquired the Sicilian-Tunisian transport ship 'San Giuseppe T', built in 1910, in Palermo and sailed it to Venice. Seven years of ship conversion were the painter's first practical years of architectural training.

1975 / 1976

After trial cruises in the Mediterranean, the 'Regentag' proved its seaworthiness with a trip to New Zealand under Captain Horst Wächter. Hundertwasser himself was captain on board in the Mediterranean, the Caribbean and on the final leg from Tahiti to the Bay of Islands. In the South Pacific Ocean, the 'Regentag' was under the care of Captain Andrew Fagan and Richard Smart until 2004.

1999 / 2000

Hundertwasser has 'Regentag' coated with ferro-cement.

San Giuseppe T

2004

The 'Regentag' was transported to Europe by freight and anchored in Tulln for the exhibition 'Hundertwasser. Art – People – Nature' as well as for planned integration into the 2008 Provincial Garden Show and the 'Tulln Water Park' on the Danube.

2015

The ship has been listed as a protected monument by the Federal Monuments Office.

2018–2024

The ship is being renovated by boat builder Tobias van Kooij on behalf of the Hundertwasser Non-Profit Foundation.
